

Globalization has made bi/multilingual competence the new norm; and bilingual education has become normal for many students in Spain and around the world. The gift of bilingual competence that students gain in these programs will last them a lifetime. Our understanding of best practices in bilingual education is constantly changing as new findings are reported by researchers and new insights are gained by professional educators working in bilingual programs around the world. The new Asociación Enseñanza Bilingüe website will be an invaluable resource for anyone who wants to learn more about bilingual education ... how we can improve it and how we can make it successful for all students. EB offers what we call in English, "one-stop-shopping" for bilingual educators --it will be the corner store for anyone wanting to expand their knowledge about bilingual education.

Fred Genesee

McGill University, Montreal